

TO JAIL TO SAVE A DOG.

Joseph Lox Refuses to Kill His Mother's Old Pet.

Joseph Lox will go to prison rather than kill his mother's old pet dog. He will tell Magistrate Zeller this in Harlem Court today, and to prove his purpose has sent the dog away so he cannot kill it if he wants to.

Lox is a grocer and lives at 235 East One Hundred and Fourth street with his aged mother. The mother has one pet, a thirteen-year-old dog, toothless, half blind and crippled, which she has had since it was a year old. Some days ago when the mother was sitting in front of her son's store, her dog in her lap, a crowd of children ran past. The dog, thinking that his mistress was in danger, growled and barked and looked as fierce as a dog of his size and age could.

This frightened Mrs. Hefferen, who lives with her husband and several children in the flat above the Lox grocery store. Mrs. Hefferen obtained a summons for Lox in the Harlem Court.

In court yesterday she said the dog was a dangerous brute, and that he growled and snapped at the children in the neighborhood.

"Your dog is evidently worthless and dangerous," Magistrate Zeller said to Lox. "He must be killed."

"Send me to prison or make me move my grocery, but you can't kill that dog," Lox answered.

Magistrate Zeller then paroled Lox until today, when he will be sent to prison if the dog is not killed.

"Kill my old mother's dog!" Lox said today to an Evening World reporter. "I would kill myself first. The poor beast couldn't harm a flea. He is as gentle as possible, except when he thinks my mother is in danger, and then he only shows his gums. He hasn't any teeth."

"I will go to court today, but they can't harm the dog. I sent my mother and her pet to Jersey City yesterday. I am perfectly willing to move my grocery there or anywhere else to save the dog's life. I believe the killing of the dog was my mother's life."

GIRL, GOING BLIND, FOUGHT FOR DEATH.

Pearl Thorndike Was Turned Out of Home and Was Too Poor to Buy Glasses.

Seldom, even in a Police Court, where so many tales of misery and misfortune are told, is heard one more pitiful than that which led pretty Pearl Thorndike to attempt three times to end her life last night.

It was the story of a half-blind daughter of a blind man who, finding herself driven from her home and unable to purchase the glasses to help her keep a position and support herself, preferred death to the hopelessness of her life.

When arraigned in court today her face showed plainly the effect of her struggle with the young men who fought to save her from self-destruction.

EYESIGHT FAILED.

Mrs. Thorndike is a girl of English birth, about eighteen years old and of refined appearance. Her family moved to this country when she was young. After the death of her mother the home was broken up.

Her father, old and sightless, went to live with a married daughter in Brooklyn, and Pearl went to live with another, Mrs. William Bennett, of 51 Manhattan street. Bennett is said to be an engineer on the "L" road.

Her eyes, never strong, began to fail her a year ago. She could see fairly well in broad daylight, but at night she was practically sightless and the pain was excruciating.

Two weeks ago she and her brother-in-law quarreled. Why is not known. As a result she was ordered to leave the home and stay away.

In her extremity she went to the home of a friend, Mrs. William Sallday, of 146 Amsterdam avenue. Mrs. Sallday told her she could sleep at the house until she got a position.

The girl sought positions and found them easily, but never could keep one longer than a day or two because of her poor eyesight.

SHE COULDN'T PAY.

In hope of help she went to the Manhattan Eye and Ear Hospital last week, and eye-glasses were prescribed for her. When the time came to pay for them she had no money.

To obtain it all she was forced to leave a position she had just secured, and last night the girl wandered down to the Recreation Pier at the foot of West One Hundred and Twenty-ninth street, hopeless and forlorn.

On the floor above a band was playing and hundreds of persons were laughing and talking. On the lower floor were a number of young persons skylarking.

The girl, a stranger to them, walked out to the end of the pier, where she stood leaning over the water. For many minutes she stood there and when Daniel Reilly, a lad, of 51 West One Hundred and Twenty-sixth street, ran past her he saw she was crying. He turned as she made a spring for the water. He caught her, but the girl fought to free herself.

FOUGHT TO DIE.

"Let me die!" she screamed, scratching, kicking and struggling. Reilly was joined by three or four of his companions and after all were nearly exhausted the girl was subdued.

She was taken to the West One Hundred and Twenty-ninth street police station, where she was held until this morning.

The China Sale.

Yesterday's business in the China department was a tribute to our efforts and proof of your sagacity and discernment. You'd never imagine that so many people needed China. They see our offerings and immediately remember deficiencies—and that maintains the movement. Never a better time for thrifty people to replenish. Come to Macy's before the China Sale dwindles. We are ready to serve those who buy for immense hotels, or those who look after the wants of modest little homes. Money-saving for every class of customer.

Colored Dress Goods.

Measure our stock by any reasonable standard and you'll find it thoroughly complete at every point. No gaps; no excuses. Call for the fabric you've failed to find elsewhere, and likelier than not we'll show it instantly. This is an all-the-year-round Dress Goods business. Varieties do not ebb and flow. They are at high tide all the time. Our command of the markets is invariably exerted in your behalf. Values, profits and matchless, are the chief characteristics, and not the exceptions. Here's a quick peep at some of the leading weaves:

Imported Cream-tinted Mohairs and Stettins, 49c. to $1.24. Imported Mohairs, ten of the prettiest pastel colors, 69c. Cream Cheviots and Serges, 79c. to $1.69. Cream Broadcloths, $1.24 to $2.98. Silk-warp Crepes, Crepe de Chine, Crepe Soie, Hemstitched Canvases and many other dainty stuffs in all the delicate summer shades, 98c. to $2.98.

The foregoing, and many others that we show, but have not mentioned, are ideal for skirts and full suits.

Black Dress Goods.

Thousands are loyal to this stock. The qualities and prices justify their steadfastness. Our values are not equalled in any other store. That's why so many who are bent on buying Black Dress Goods come straight here. We can only hint of assortments:

All-silk Grenadines, many rich designs, 98c. to $1.49. Crepons, twenty-five patterns to choose from, 40 and 42 inches wide, 98c. to $2.98. Serges and Cheviots, sponged and shrunk, 99c. to $1.98. Broadcloth, 98c. to $1.49.

39c. for imported Mohair Brillantines, excellent quality for bathing suits—well woven and serviceable. We recommend our own special importation at $1.24 for skirts and full dresses. Its luster is very high and permanent and its touch is fine and silky. There are other grades here at 49c., 59c., 69c., 79c. up to $1.49.

Women's $3.50 Shoes at $2.24.

They were made by a leading manufacturer to demonstrate the power of labor and skill and organization, when applied to the production of fine shoes to retail at $3.50. Look at them. Any judge will instantly recognize their value. Even a novice can readily see that they are not $2.24 shoes.

Button styles, extra fine dog-eared—soft, flexible, tough for wear—welted and stitched soles, broad open toes, patent leather tips—dressy and first-rate throughout—worth $3.50; our price $2.24.

This bargain may be accepted as a challenge to all dealers. We are sincere and sure in the statement that equal value is not to be found elsewhere. We do not recall ever having offered greater value.

$1.50 Ribbon-and-Lace All-Overs, 89c

Seven to ten rows of cream and white Valenciennes, Point de Paris and Italian Lace combined with nine to eleven rows of All-Silk Ribbon in light blue, heliotrope, turquoise, cardinal, pink, yellow and other shades. Width ranges from 18 to 21 inches, worth $1.50; our price 89c. the yard. In great demand for waists.
